

Tom Cuthbert

Tom Cuthbert has been a Vistage chair in San Antonio for three years. Tom has had extensive business experience including leading the turnaround team of a national restaurant chain, raising millions in venture capital and founding several companies. The most recent company he founded, Adometry, was acquired by Google. Tom is a recognized expert in online advertising, business growth and alignment. Today Tom chairs three high performing Vistage groups made up of CEO's and business leaders from diverse industries right here in San Antonio. His personal mission is to "Help others see what they can't in order to achieve what they can